

Our future, the power of love and the pure consciousness

The utopian, "perfect" future that we humans strive for cannot unfold before us if we do not try to triumph over evil with the power of love and knowledge. Love is to be understood as the savior who heals the world from sin. Love is a feeling and beneficence towards oneself and others, which is able to cleanse us of all negative actions, thoughts and feelings. It is able to move masses and spiritually raise them to a level of consciousness that is unparalleled.

The Earth cannot catch up with the other places of great knowledge and high consciousness in the Universe if it allows the evil and demonic forces to prevail. We must choose the path of wisdom, love and knowledge, which protects us from the sins of the world.

Our earthly paradise is to become a great library that stores the knowledge accumulated over eons. This library should contain everything that our spiritual and technological world has learned from the ancients and the people of the modern age.

Our material realities are being built up and becoming beautiful, but this is only a tool to protect the part of our reality that we really are, and this is the knowledge with which we earthly humans create. We must not completely confuse these material tools with our spiritual reality, the reality of pure consciousness. Pure consciousness lives in the ether and on the pages of books, a beautiful "Deity" like which there is no other. He is the idea and the spontaneous creative force. The most beautiful thing in the world.

In our library, we must store writings from our realities from which we learn, have learned, and in which we create positive, knowledgeable and beautiful worlds. The latter does not mean that negative realities cannot appear. These have always existed and we must pass on the knowledge gained from overcoming them to our grandchildren. But this is only so that we don't make the mistakes we made again.
